

umbia County delegation is coming out against Dix and that even if "Packy" McCabe's delegates from Albany County are ready to step from the McCabe Tammany ranks into the insurgent camp.

Every district in Tammany Hall and the organization in Brooklyn were represented to-day among the mourners at the funeral of George Scannell, the Tammany leader. The funeral services did not act as a stopper on conversation about politics. All the politicians agreed that the fight against Murphy is a fight to a finish and that the Boss is in danger for the first time since he took advantage of a situation of confusion and doubt and edged himself into the leadership of Tammany Hall and then into the State leadership.

O'GORMAN TO VISIT WILSON AT SEA GIRT.

The fact that William G. McAdoo is going to Syracuse is regarded as indicative of the wish of Gov. Wilson that the opposition take the initiative and force the attack. Senator O'Gorman is to visit Gov. Wilson on Monday for a conference over the situation in this State, and it would not be surprising if the candidate for the Presidency should consider the occasion momentous enough to warrant him in breaking his determination to take no part in Democratic affairs in New York.

A statement from Gov. Wilson concerning Charles F. Murphy along the lines of the address he recently delivered to the people of New Jersey about the aspirations of ex-Senator James Smith may be a development of the next three days. As soon as Gov. Wilson has rested at Sea Girt from the fatigue of his trip into the Northwest he is scheduled to take up the New York matter for serious consideration.

Murphy is not fighting for the renomination of Gov. Dix as a matter of political principle and policy and expediency alone. He is fighting for the political life of Charles F. Murphy. As a politician he saw the trend of things long before the Baltimore convention. When Senator O'Gorman began to figure, a few months ago, as one of the leading advocates of the nomination of Gov. Wilson for the Presidency Charles F. Murphy sat up and took notice. There was no room for him on the Wilson bandwagon.

MURPHY CAN GET NO WILSON PATRONAGE.

He fought the nomination of Wilson in Baltimore for selfish reasons, primarily. In the event of Wilson's election the matter of distribution of Federal patronage in New York State is to be in the hands of Senator O'Gorman and William G. McAdoo and men they can trust. Charles F. Murphy will be out in the cold. And if he cannot control the State Convention, and the Wilson forces name the candidate, he will be out in the cold as to State patronage.

For a long, bleak period he has been out in the cold as to city patronage, so if he is beaten at Syracuse it will be his cue to slink small, because personal persons in politics have no use for a politician after he is unable to secure tickets entitling the bearers thereof to a place at the patronage table.

Locally things are beginning to smolder. The long pent-up opposition to Murphy, which exists in every district in the city, threatens to break out. William B. Wilson, one of the delegates from Senator O'Gorman's district, is out as an advocate of the nomination of some man other than Dix—of a candidate of the character and standing of Burroughs Fowler, for instance.

Many other delegates are outspokenly against the Murphy policy of renominating Dix. So while the Republicans are fighting their battles in the open in Senatorial districts there is going to be a lot of inside work done in New York City in Democratic circles.

MANUFACTURERS' ASS'N ELECT NEW OFFICERS.

At Last Meeting Exporters Praise Present System of Selecting Consular Officers.

The American Manufacturers' Export Association opened the second and last day of its third annual convention at the Hotel Astor this morning, going into executive session. Reports of the secretary, treasurer and various committees were read and an amendment of the Constitution made, providing for an executive committee. Several resolutions were passed, among them one urging that the system of selecting and retaining consular officers without reference to their political affiliations be maintained and continued.

Officers elected for the coming year were: William C. Redfield, president of the House of Representatives; president; M. De Mores of John Boyle, Inc., first vice-president; C. W. Smith of Parke, Davis & Co., New York, second vice-president; W. J. Marsden, vice & Towne Bldg. Co., New York, vice-president; and J. L. Gemberling of the Sherwin-Williams Company, Newark, N. J., treasurer.

The directors elected were: For three years, W. N. Dickinson, Otis Elevator Company, New York, and A. C. Ransom, Ransom Concrete & Machinery Co., Donelson, N. C., for two years, W. T. Clark, Pinkette Mfg. Co., Boston, Mass., and J. M. Menendez, H. B. Churchill Company, New York, for one year, Alfred J. Jupp, Lunkenheimer Company, New York, and W. E. Gavan, E. L. Du Pont de Nemours Powder Company.

Found Check for $1,000,000.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—A check for $1,000,000 is awaiting a claimant at police headquarters. No millionaire has yet reported himself "why." The check was picked up in front of a station house by a patrolman. It was drawn on the Continental Trust Company, payable to "Constant Newell" and purports to be signed by "M. A. Warden." The "cops" do not know where there are being pulled by some practical joker.

Bank Reserve $7,371,000.
The statement of the actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $7,371,000 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $93,000 from last week.

DOROTHY RICE WEDS IN MADRID; A NEAR-ELOPEMENT

Anti-Noise Crusader's Daughter Didn't Tell Parents She Was to Be Married.

BRIDE OF AN ARTIST.

Bridegroom Is Waldo Pierce, Also an American, and Former Harvard Star.

While it wasn't exactly an elopement, the marriage of Dorothy Rice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac L. Rice of this city, and Waldo Pierce of Bangor, Me., at Madrid on Sept. 6 was a sudden and unconventional affair, befitting the mercurial temperaments of the contracting parties. The news of the wedding was a great surprise when it reached Mr. and Mrs. Rice at their home in the Ansonia. Mrs. Rice said today, for they left their daughter in Paris on Sept. 1 and Miss Dorothy said nothing to them at that time of an intent to wed Mr. Pierce five days later.

That an engagement existed between their daughter and Mr. Pierce was known to Mr. and Mrs. Rice, and the match had their approval, but they had expected the wedding to take place in this city next December. Mr. and Mrs. Rice sailed for New York from London on Sept. 7, in ignorance of the fact that their daughter had been married in Madrid the day before.

KNOWN TO BICYCLE POLICEMEN AS RED DEMON.

The bride is a New York girl who was pretty much in the public eye from the time she left school. She and her chum, Blanche Roscoe, were known to the bicycle policemen as the "Red Demon" and the "Blue Streak" because of their penchant for speeding on motorcycles along Riverside Drive and through the parkways.

Going abroad to study art eighteen months ago, Dorothy Rice, who was an artist in her tastes and her natural bent led her to painting and sculpture. She is an artist of ability with talent for presenting on canvas or in plastic form the grotesque and unusual.

While in Europe she had established a studio. Waldo Pierce, also an artist. Pierce is an unusual young American, uniting artistic tastes with a huge, athletic frame and unimpaired nerve and initiative.

He was a football star in Harvard college and was known to his friends as his "fancy" demon. About two years ago it occurred to him that a trip to Europe as an attendant on a cattle show would be quite a lark.

In company with an adventurous chum young Pierce signed as a cattle valet on an American Transport steamer bound for London. The job he had on him before the ship had cleared from her dock. In the lower bay he took a dive overboard and swam ashore.

Pierce has been abroad since studying art in Paris and Madrid. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Melien Chamberlain Pierce of Bangor.

Mrs. Isaac L. Rice is one of the best known clubwomen in New York. She is the founder of the Society for the Prevention of Unnecessary Noises, and the fight which resulted in the elimination of superfluous street signs and the practice by the pilots of craft in the North River adjacent to Riverside Drive.

YOM KIPPUR DELAYS JURY IN FINDING CONROY VERDICT.

Five Members Cannot Pass on Case Till After Sunset To-day, but More Instructions are Asked.

After being out only forty minutes less than twenty-four hours the jury in the case of Joseph Conroy, charged with the murder of John J. O'Connell, Judge Joseph F. Pettreth in his office at No. 122 Park Row, filed into Justice Court at 3 o'clock this afternoon for further instructions regarding the various degrees of homicide. The jury, which was similarly for instructions at 5:30 o'clock last night and had again retired after receiving them.

The fact that there are five Hebrews on the jury, and that to-day, Yom Kippur, is the great Day of Atonement, is believed to be responsible for the delay in the verdict, at least until after sundown to-day. According to the strict Moslem law no orthodox Jew may do harm to a fellow creature from one sunset to another on the Day of Atonement. None of the five Hebrews on the jury could conscientiously bring in any verdict except acquittal during the twenty-four-hour period of Yom Kippur.

Justice Goff waited in his chambers until late last night, believing a verdict was possible. Again to-day he spent the hours reading in his chambers while the jury deliberated.

One of the questions the foreman of the jury asked Justice Goff was whether or not it was possible for a majority to force a "stubborn minority" to come to its way of thinking. The Justice replied there was none and that a minority that held out for its opinion often settled a question rightly.

New York Girl Who Is the Bride of a Fellow-Artist in Madrid

BABY FALLS 3 STORIES, HITS GIRL ON SIDEWALK AND HAS SKULL BROKEN

Child Watching for Her Father Presses Too Hard on Pane and Crashes Through.

Lena Totterman's father went to the synagogue to-day to beseech in his Yom Kippur prayer that she be preserved to him through her third year as she been through her second. The synagogue is in Delancey street, just across from the Totterman's flat at No. 115 Ludlow street and Lena stood with her head pressed against the front window, watching for the crowd of worshippers, among whom would be her father.

They came at last and Lena's head pressed harder against the window pane. It gave, and a shower of glass went to the street, three stories below. The child lost her balance and fell. Her shoes caught for an instant on the lower sash and twisted her body so that as she fell her hands smashed in the second story window. A few feet farther down was a cornice. She struck this and rolled off.

Four-year-old Dora Kaplan, who had kept a watch on the sidewalk for the crowd from the synagogue, recognized her father and started toward him with extended arms. She ran beneath the falling child and broke her fall.

The children were carried into a store and Dr. Girdlansky came in an ambulance from Gouverneur Hospital. Dora had only a scalp wound and a few bruises. Lena's skull was fractured. Both children were taken to the hospital. Lena, it is feared, will die.

STATUE OF LIBERTY GIVES DEAR M. LOTI THE GLAD HAND! OUI!

from the Queen of Roumania! An overcoat of vivid green was thrown back to show a lavender gray suit of marvellously cut curves. Tiny patent leather shoes with very high, slender heels, raised the whole imposing figure to the height of 5 feet 4 inches—or maybe 5 feet 5.

AM! THAT MUSTACHE! EET EES SUPERB!

The austerity of the bronze features was increased by a wonderful mustache curled to fine curving points turned back toward the nose.

The great man raised his gray beard little hand. He laid a slender finger on his lips. The door closed. The picture was no more.

"Ah," sighed M. de Tossan, casting his hands helplessly, as one who has done his utmost to serve. Then he suffered with new determination.

articles should be, by chance, see them."

It was so clear, from M. de Tossan's manner, that no such base literature would be allowed to sully Pierre Loti's artistic purity that the chance is here taken.

"You may address him in English," continued the master of ceremonies; "he will reply in French."

Once more the three raps on the door, slow and insistent. Once more the knob turned and the door swung back. Once more the reporters blinked. He stepped forth. With a bow of recognition of the presence of his visitors, he stepped to the rail and looked into the fog, which so veiled the prospect that only dim outlines of the shore line were visible. He spoke a word or two.

"Ah!" exclaimed M. de Tossan, in delight. "He says: 'After forty years!'"

Then the interpreter explained that as a French cadet, M. Loti was here on a cruise, forty years ago. Condescending to converse, the author spoke. He chose the most original and startling subject ever broached by an incoming stranger—our high buildings! He went so far as to say the city had changed greatly in forty years. At the proper moment the gray-shaded silhouette of the Bartholdi Statue of Liberty loomed dimly out of the fog.

REMARKABLE! THE SUN WAS SHINING, SO IT WAS!

Pierre Loti went to the rail and stood uncovered in silent contemplation. He spoke to M. de Tossan rapidly.

"You will be pleased to say," the interpreter announced, "that as M. Loti regarded the statue, the sun was shining brightly and its rays were flashed back by little dancing waves and the august image, bathed also in sunlight, looked down on the son of France with a benign welcome."

Loti declined to pose for an Evening World photograph. He graciously preferred to supply a photograph, touched and decorated by himself, in which the small size of the feet and other little details appeared to the best possible advantage.

Fractured. Both children were taken to the hospital. Lena, it is feared, will die.

THE HON. OLIVER SYLVAINE BALIOL BRETT'S HERE, HE IS!

He Hid Part of His Name on the Steamer, but Miss Heckscher Will Soon Get It All.

He was down on the passenger list of the Cunard line steamship Campania, in to-day, merely as "O. Brett," but his name is really the Hon. Oliver Sylvaine Baliol Brett. He is the son and heir of Lord Esher, Esquerry to King George, and he is coming over here to be married. He will wed Miss Antoinette Heckscher, daughter of August Heckscher, president of the Commonwealth Real Estate Company, and a director of the Chatham and Phoenix National Bank, at Huntington, L. I., on Oct. 1.

The Hon. Mr. Brett said it was quite true that when his engagement to Miss Heckscher was first announced, the committee had been objected to his marrying an American girl and the engagement was broken. But only temporarily, for Mr. Brett managed to fix it up with his family, he said to-day, and they will now be very glad to welcome their American daughter-in-law.

Miss Heckscher is an active suffragette and took part in the suffragette parade a few months ago.

ALMANAC FOR TO-DAY.

CITY CRAFT HUNT MAY STRIKE SNAG FOR LACK OF FUNDS

Alderman Dowling to Lead Fight Against Demand for More Money.

WON'T CALL M'CLELLAN.

Gaynor to Be Again Put on Stand to Explain Waldo's Statements.

A fight that may endanger the activities of the Curran Aldermanic Committee is expected shortly when the committee asks for a further appropriation to continue its work of investigating the Police Department. When the committee was appointed the Board of Aldermen received $25,000 from the Board of Estimate, a large portion of this money has been pledged for retaining counsel, paying Secret Service Chief Flyn's fee as a chief investigator, running down clues that have been offered, and paying the corps of stenographers who record proceedings.

Alderman Dowling, Tammany leader in the Board and minority leader on the committee, probably will lead the fight against a further appropriation, aided by the Democratic Aldermen, who declare the committee has thus far failed to "deliver the goods." If the committee succeeds in getting an appropriation through the Board of Aldermen the Board of Estimate will have to be dealt with and it was reported to-day that opposition will be met there.

Former Mayor McClellan, who has been quoted as declaring that former Police Commissioner Bingham "freed" Mr. Waldo when the latter was Deputy Police Commissioner, will not be called to the witness stand, although he has offered to appear.

It is planned to recall Mayor Gaynor to the stand after the examination of Commissioner Waldo. It is said he will be asked to explain why he said Mr. Waldo made an examination of every applicant for a position on the police force, while the Commissioner testified that these examinations were made by the Civil Service Commission. It is not probable that the Mayor will be subpoenaed. He will be asked to come voluntarily.

Although no summonses have been issued, former Commissioners Baker, Cropper and Bingham probably will be called, in order. Mr. Baker has denounced what he terms the refusal of the Mayor to give him a free hand in conducting the department.

Commissioner Cropper will be questioned at length regarding his "investigation bureau," which Commissioner Waldo abolished. This bureau, during its existence, according to Lieut. Stanton, its head, found that 12 per cent. of the men certified to the force by the Civil Service Commission were "thieves, murderers and other crooks."

Commissioner Waldo will be recalled to the witness stand Monday afternoon. He will be asked to describe the various forms of vice in the city, and to tell how vice is handled. Emory R. Buckner, counsel to the committee, is said to have many interesting questions to ask regarding the possible protection of vice by members of the uniformed and plain-clothes forces. Mr. Waldo will be questioned also about the detective bureau.

Members of the committee said to-day, that the Police Department ought to resume its investigation bureau as a check against the possible protection of vice by members of the uniformed and plain-clothes forces. Mr. Waldo will be questioned also about the detective bureau.

It is more important, said Attorney Buckner to-day, "to get good men on the force than it is to uncover some sporadic instances of graft. When a plan has been devised to see that only good men get in the department there will be no more grafting. I consider that one of the most important things in the working of the organization."

RUNAWAY ON SIDEWALK INJURES CHILDREN.

Three small children were hurt to-day when a horse attached to a milk wagon ran upon the sidewalk at No. 27 West Sixty-seventh street, overturning the wagon and hurrying the driver, Henry Bott, of No. 24 Columbus avenue, against a wall.

The runaway was a block on the sidewalk, knocking down children, until he was stopped by Philip Dittman of No. 25 West Sixty-seventh street. Jennie Astilo, four years old, of No. 27 West Sixty-seventh street, was cut on the right foot; Michael Ryan, eight years old, suffered injuries to a leg and his back, and Marie Bolma, three years old, of No. 21 West Forty-third street, had a long gash in her forehead.

Dr. Markham of the Flower Hospital treated the children and sent them home. The wagon, owned by the Locust Dairy Farm Company of No. 21 West Thirty-fifth street, was wrecked and broken glass and milk were scattered over a block. The driver was unhurt.

GOV. WILSON BACK FROM LONG TRIP GREATLY PLEASED

Saw 85,000 Persons in the Middle West and All Seemed Cordial.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 21.—Gov. Woodrow Wilson received Sea Girt this afternoon. The Governor has under consideration making a speech at Jersey City to-night.

Members of Gov. Wilson's party to-day estimated that the number of persons whom the candidate had addressed and met at receptions during the five days at $5,000. Asked how he felt about the trip the Governor said:

"It is hard for me to view the trip objectively. What interested me most was the friendliness of the people toward me. I felt as if they were interested. I observed especially that the plainest fellows were the most cordial. They seemed to feel that there was no offense and that I was accessible to them. All the trip, of course, has been a new experience. I am a little the worse for wear, but I have enjoyed talking to the great crowds and meeting them. They seemed so interested and attentive."

With reference particularly to his visit to Columbus, Gov. Wilson remarked:

"In many respects it was most extraordinary. It reminded me of a Jersey outpouring. I felt thoroughly at home."

GOVERNOR WOULD STOP HAVRE DE GRACE RACING.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 21.—Legal measures to stop racing at Havre de Grace were authorized by Gov. Goldsborough to-day. The Governor has been informed by his law officers that the Havre de Grace race track, which controls the Havre de Grace meeting, has never qualified under the law and that all the racing that has been conducted there has been in violation of the law.

The race track interests are expected to make a fight in the courts in the event of an attempt being made to stop the meetings, which expires by limitation Oct. 1.

The Governor declared that the members of the commission cannot at this date come in and qualify as to period of thirty days for that purpose, has expired.

FIRE ON FLEEING SUSPECTS
Detectives Chase Alleged Thieves in Newark Street.

Henry R. Webb of Whippany, a cousin of Richard Welford, whose house at No. 623 Parker street, Newark, N. J., was robbed of $200 worth of jewelry and other valuables yesterday, and Russell R. Smith of this city were arrested by Detectives Quinn and Kuhn to-day after, as the police allege, they had pawned some of the Welford jewelry in a pawnshop. The detectives fired several shots while chasing Webb and Smith in Third street.

PRISONER SHOT IN HEADQUARTERS ESCAPE IS DYING

Two Bystanders Injured During Chase Laid Up With Broken Bones.

William McInerney, the alleged burglar who jumped out of a window at Police Headquarters yesterday in an effort to escape and was shot by a detective just as Detective Shelly was seizing him, was reported at St. Vincent's Hospital this morning to be in a serious condition. The doctors say he will die.

McInerney, who is also known as Michael Kelly, was arrested yesterday at Third avenue and One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street as he was walking down the avenue with Thomas Lyons, son of a physician at Lawrence, Mass. He was believed to have been the companion of Walter P. Pelletreau in the robbery of the apartment of Mrs. Josephine Thatcher at No. 100 West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street Tuesday night.

His record was being taken in the Bureau of Criminal Identification when McInerney knocked down Shelly and sprang through a window into Grand street, fifteen feet below. He fell upon Vincenzo Marafioti, a late convict, and the boy's left leg was broken.

During the chase when several shots were fired Joseph Larotola, a tailor, of No. 23 East One Hundred and seventh street, had his thumb clipped by a bullet. Believing he had been mortally wounded, he fell to the sidewalk and broke his wrist.

YOUNG PINKUS TO THE ISLAND FOR GIRL'S AUTO RIDE

his offer to give her a "lift," believing, as she told Mrs. Kuehne, that they were well brought up, quiet mannered young men, who would behave themselves.

At Fortieth street, Miss Hutter said, Pinkus reached around from the front seat and took hold of her clothing. She pulled away from him and, she said, he apologized and said she needn't be afraid, he would not bother her.

Meantime, she said, she heard Pinkus suggest to the companion that they turn into a dark street and agree to the answer, by Winchester, that they could go up through Central Park.

When they turned, Pinkus again turned and annoyed her as the car turned toward the park, and she began to scream and fight with her hat-pin, causing the policeman to come.

Mrs. Rene Cartier, a sister of Pinkus, said at her home in Lawrence, L. I., to-day that she felt that Magistrate Kretel had treated her brother outrageously for merely indulging in a "boyish prank." He was thirty-one years old, she said, and was old enough to know better than to speak to strange girls on the street, but she was being too severely punished for mere playfulness.

Meantime young Mr. Pinkus was fitted with a gray-striped suit and was provided with a meal of coarse bread and thick soup.

CRIPPLE SAVES HIS WIFE, AN INVALID, FROM FLAMES.

Flatbush Weekly News Office Ablaze—Tenants on Second Floor Have Narrow Escape.

Frank Bullinger, a cripple, and his wife, an invalid, who had been confined to her bed, had a narrow escape from death to-day when the building in which they live, the first floor of which is occupied by the Flatbush Weekly News, Snyder and Flatbush avenues, was swept by flames.

The blaze started in the office of the newspaper on the first floor of the building, which is a three-story brick structure. Bullinger, who lived on the second floor, was returning home when he saw the blaze. He hurried upstairs and aided his wife to the street, while the police of the Snyder avenue station nearby turned in an alarm.

No one was in the newspaper office at the time, and the flat above the second floor was empty. The office of the Weekly News for forty years back were destroyed, and the damage to the building was estimated at more than $1,000.

BOB VERNON ADMITS HE CAN'T FIND MAN TO BEAT JOHNSON

Back After Combing the Pugilistic Centres of Europe Disconsolate.

Bob Vernon, friend of ex-Champion James J. Jeffries and well-known sporting man, returned from Europe on the Baltic to-day, thoroughly disconsolate. He had not been able to find any "White Hope" abroad, though he combed the camps of the pugilists from Wales to the uttermost confines of France.

"I went over on Jeffries' suggestion," said Vernon, "to try to find some boxer who could take away the championship from Johnson. As soon as I landed I heard about a big fellow in Vichy, France, who had a great reputation among the French partisans of 'the box.' I dug him up.

"Well, he looked all right, but when I put it to him that he come to America and stack up against Jack Johnson, that Frenchman nearly passed away; he never got such a scare in his life. He refused point blank.

"Then I heard of Owen Owens, a Welshman who stands 6 feet 2 1/2 inches in his stockings and weighs 210 pounds in training. I went and found this person, and I tell you he was a magnificent specimen. But he, too, balked on the Johnson stuff. He couldn't see it at all. So I gave it up. I have written Jeffries that he'll have to look up his own White Hopes in future.
